

Characteristics of a Healthy Network

- 1. People in the network tend to be positive and appreciative.
- 2. People in the network know or know of many of the others in this network space.
- 3. People in the network are interested in working collaboratively with others and have the skills to do so.
- 4. People in the network understand that paying attention to relationships is critical to success.
- 5. There is a lot of diversity of perspectives and backgrounds in the network.
- 6. Leadership in the network is distributed, open, and encouraging.
- 7. People in the network share information easily and frequently with others in the network.
- 8. The network is action-oriented.
- 9. The network takes time to reflect and learn.