

The New York Education Initiative at The Jewish Education Project

The New York Education Initiative (NYEI), is Greater New York City's premier resource center on the Jewish people, Jewish history, and Israel for public, independent, and faith-based schools. Embedded in The Jewish Education Project, NYEI seeks to amplify the voices of New York's Jewish communities in education coalitions, work with school and district leaders to promote an inclusive and safe K-12 school environment, and ensure accurate instruction while proactively preventing bias, discrimination and hate in schools.

Through strategic consultation and customized professional development, NYEI offers support on:

- Antisemitism
- Jewish culture
- Creating a safe educational environment for students of all faiths and none
- Supporting diverse communities in the aftermath of the war in Israel
- Preventing identity-based hatred and how to be an upstander
- Responsive and representative curricular materials

We also offer problem-solving solutions for school leaders and parents following an antisemitic incident, such as navigating potential disciplinary responses, reporting, community messaging, and preventing future incidents. The New York Education Initiative is your thought partner in designing the offering most responsive to your needs.
